Purpose: Voluntary, Sovereign, Enduring

Core Mission

The Republic exists to provide a constitutional union through which sovereign Nations may voluntarily cooperate for the advancement of peace, cultural preservation, self-determined economic development, and the enduring wellbeing of their People — present, future, and those yet unborn.

Voluntary by Nature

Participation in the Republic is an act of sovereign will. No Nation is compelled to apply, remain, or comply with any condition that diminishes its authority. A Nation's decision to join is a declaration of cooperation, not submission. Withdrawal at any time carries no penalty and does not affect the Nation's standing, rights, or recognition.

Sovereignty Preserved

The Republic does not create, grant, or confer sovereignty upon any Nation. Each Nation carries its own constitutional authority, genealogy, Lore, and identity — independent of and prior to this Framework. Admission is an act of recognition, not creation. The Republic acknowledges what already exists.

An Enduring Covenant

This Framework is not a temporary arrangement. It is a living constitutional instrument, designed to endure across generations. It shall be interpreted in the spirit of Natural Equity, mutual respect, and the original intent of the founding Nations — and shall never be used to diminish the rights it was created to protect.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES

Constitutional Foundations

This Framework is administered in accordance with three foundational constitutional principles. These principles are not aspirational — they are binding. They govern every decision made under this Framework and protect the integrity of every Nation that engages with the Republic.

Voluntary Participation

No Nation shall be compelled to seek admission, remain a Participating Nation, or surrender any aspect of its sovereignty as a condition of admission or continued participation. Every step of the process — from initial inquiry to formal admission — is undertaken freely, with full and informed consent. Any Nation may withdraw at any time without penalty, consequence, or loss of standing.

Equality of Nations

Every application shall be assessed on its own merits, fairly, impartially, and consistently, in accordance with Natural Equity and procedural fairness. No Nation shall be treated as lesser, inferior, or subordinate to another. Size, population, territory, or economic capacity shall not influence the assessment or outcome of any application.

Constitutional Integrity

This Framework does not stand alone. It shall be read together with the Charter of Establishment, the Constitution of the Republic, all Constitutional Acts, and every other constitutional instrument of the Republic. Where any conflict arises, the instrument that best protects the sovereignty and rights of the Participating Nation shall prevail.

Eligibility and Application Process

A Nation may apply for admission where it identifies as a distinct Nation or Original People, possesses its own governance or recognised constitutional authority, and voluntarily seeks participation.

Application Requirements and Process

Every application shall be submitted to the National Registry using the prescribed Participating Nation Admission Application and Declaration, and shall include the following where applicable.

Official and traditional name of the Nation, and principal place of administration.	Names and contact details of authorised representatives.	Supporting constitutional or governance information and documents.
Signed Declaration confirming voluntary and authorised application.	Any additional information reasonably required by the National Registry.	Historical, genealogical, cultural, or territorial information where the Nation wishes to provide it.

Assessment and Constitutional Determination

National Registry Assessment

The National Registry shall assess every application impartially and consistently, examining all documents, consulting with the applicant Nation, and preparing an Admission Assessment Report with findings and recommendations.

Constitutional Determination

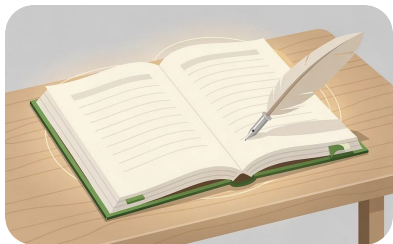

The Admission Assessment Report is submitted to the appropriate constitutional authority, which may approve, defer, or decline the application. Where cultural or Lore authority is concerned, the Nation's own recognised authority is consulted.

Notice of Determination

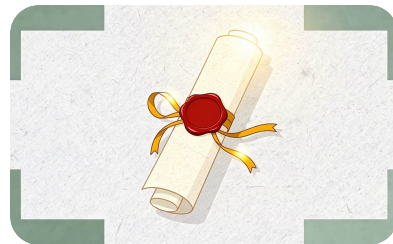

Following determination, the National Registry notifies the applicant Nation in writing of the outcome, including the decision, effective date, any conditions, and reasons where an application is deferred or declined.

Registration, Certification and Records

Register of Participating Nations

The National Registry shall establish and maintain the official Register recording all Nations admitted to the Republic, including reference numbers, date of admission, and status.

Certificate of Recognition

Following admission, the National Registry issues a Certificate of Recognition constituting official evidence of the Nation's admission as a Participating Nation.

Constitutional Archives

All records — applications, declarations, assessments, determinations, and certificates — are maintained accurately, securely, and permanently within the Constitutional Archives.

Certified Copies

The National Registry may issue certified copies of any constitutional record, which shall constitute official constitutional records of the Republic.

Admission confirms the Nation's voluntary participation within the constitutional framework of the Republic. It shall not create, diminish, transfer, extinguish, replace, or otherwise affect the sovereignty, identity, governance, constitutional authority, territories, genealogy, culture, traditions, rights, or responsibilities of the Participating Nation.

Self-Independence and Sustainability

Lore Men and Lore Women Authority

Each Participating Nation may establish a Lore Men and Lore Women Area within its own governance. The Republic shall respect cultural restrictions, confidentiality, and gender-specific knowledge. Nothing in this Framework authorises the Republic to appoint, remove, or override recognised Lore authorities.

Nation Departments

Each Participating Nation may establish departments — including Lore and Culture, Governance, Treasury, Health, Education, Country and Waters, and many others — under its own Constitution, Lore, Law, customs, or recognised governing processes.

Republic Support Without Control

At a Nation's request, the Republic may assist with templates, training, technical systems, and shared services. Such support shall not create ownership, control, guardianship, or superior authority over the Nation, its departments, assets, or People.

Continuity, Sovereignty, and Enduring Recognition

A Framework Built to Protect and Preserve

This Framework shall commence on the date of its authentication by the Republic and shall remain in force until amended or replaced in accordance with the Constitution. A Participating Nation may voluntarily withdraw at any time, and such withdrawal shall not affect its sovereignty, identity, governance, constitutional authority, territories, genealogy, culture, traditions, rights, or responsibilities. Every amendment shall be approved through the constitutional amendment process and preserved as part of the permanent constitutional records of the Republic.

"Nothing contained within this Framework shall be interpreted as creating, diminishing, transferring, extinguishing, replacing, or otherwise affecting the sovereignty, constitutional authority, identity, governance, territories, genealogy, culture, traditions, rights, or responsibilities of any Nation except through its own voluntary decision."

Authenticated by the Council of Elders, Parliament, and the National Registrar under the authority of the Constitution of the Republic of the United Sovereign Nations Confederation.
